FERGUSON SUSPENDED AS GOVERNOR

Brilliant Charge of French Takes Last Stronghold of Verdun

24TH INFANTRY TO NEW MEXICO

ALL QUIET AT HOUSTON YESTERDAY FOLLOWING RIOTING OF THURSDAY.

DEATH LIST IS SEVENTEEN

GEN. HULEN NAMED GOVERNOR OF CITY—MAJ. GEN. BELL COMES TODAY.

By the Associated Press.

Houston, Aug. 24.—Blanket charges of murder were filed tonight by District Attorney John Crooker against thirty-four negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth infantry, held in the county jail as a result of the troubles last night, which ended with the death of seventeen persons, four of them police officers.

This was the first move indicative of an attempt by the state to retain custody of the soldiers rather than turn them over to the army for punishment.

Called "Practically Mutiny."

Negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth infantry were being entrained tonight to be removed to Columbus, N. M. Capt. L. F. Snow, commanding the battalion, said late tonight that the action of the negroes was "practically mutiny."

Captain Snow said that prior to proceeding to the city, where they killed fifteen persons, wounded twenty-one and lost two of their own number, his men repeatedly disobeyed orders. There was indiscriminate firing in the camp, he added, but he did not consider that any bullets were directed at himself.

"It was not mutiny in the sense the word is generally used," he said. "But there was repeated disobedience of commands. After leaving the camp the negroes committed murder."

No Commissioned Men.

There were no commissioned officers among the men who did the shooting. The non-commissioned officers with the shooters were Sergeant Henry and Corporals Wheatley, Brown, Snodgrass, Moore and Tillman. There are no military charges against the men as yet, but according to Snow they can be "very serious."

Charges will be filed by the commanding officer of the department, it is understood here. Plans for further investigation await the arrival of Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr. tomorrow.

Status of 34 in Doubt.

While it is certain the members of the negro battalion at Camp Logan will be removed early tomorrow morning, Captain Snow said the status of the thirty-four men held in jail has not been definitely determined. He said there was no question, however, of the right of the military to take the men elsewhere, if it is desired, notwithstanding the action of District Attorney John M. Crooker in filing blanket charges of murder against them today.

Announcement that Gen. Parker had ordered the removal of the twenty-fourth infantry from Houston to Columbus, N. M., served materially to restore a spirit of quiet here this evening after a day of unrest following the race rioting last night which resulted in the death of seventeen persons and the wounding of more than a score.

Coming as a climax to a series of minor troubles between city police and negro military police, guarding Camp Logan, Houston's mobilization site for the Illinois division of the national guard, Thursday's outbreak created a reign of terror for many hours. Of the 125 negroes to leave their camp Thursday with stolen munition all but eight were accounted for at 6 o'clock this evening. The remaining fugitives are expected to be rounded up before nightfall, scores of civilians and military patrols looking for them.

Bell Arrives Today.

Major General George Bell, Jr., will arrive tomorrow to take charge of the situation from Gen. John A. Nulen, who was appointed commander by Governor Ferguson when the state executive declared the city and county

POLICEWOMAN IS BACK AT ALLEN

MRS. SCARBOROUGH DECLARES COMMISSIONER ONLY PAYS POLL TAX HERE.

Policewoman Minnie B. Scarborough has fired her first shot.

She hit Commissioner Bryant Allen right between the eyes yesterday with the following:

"Since one commissioner, Mr. Bryant Allen, considers a non-tax payer ineligible for the position of plainclothes detective, I wish to remove that objection. As usual Mr. Allen has spoken without proper information, as I am a tax payer in the city of Waco.

Upon investigation, I find the only taxes Mr. Allen pays is the poll tax, and while as yet such right is denied me I am confidently expecting the near future to give me that privilege also.

MRS. MINNIE B SCARBOROUGH.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS INJURY TO MAN ON SOUTH EIGHTH

A man giving his name as Neal, stating he resided a mile and a half north of Temple, is in the Provident sanitarium as the result of severe knife wounds sustained in a fight "with a negro" on South Eighth street, according to the story he told police who found him beside his machine at a late hour. According to Neal's story a negro attacked him. Police say considerable mystery surrounds the case. Neal will recover.

STATE CROP REPO[illegible] SAYS M'LENNAN COUNTY COTTON AVERAGES ONE BALE TO SEVEN ACRES

WHEAT AND OATS A HALF CROP WITH CORN A TOTAL FAILURE; STATE AT LARGE HAS SUFFERED MORE FROM DROUTH THAN DURING ANY SEASON OF PAST QUARTER CENTURY.

Special to the News.

Austin, Aug. 24.—Taken as a whole, Texas has suffered from the drouth of this year in a larger measure than has occurred for a quarter of a century or more, in many counties the drouth being the most disastrous in history, according to information furnished the state department of agriculture. This information is gathered from a responsible sourse in each county, under date of August 20.

For McLennan county the report shows:

Wheat and oats, half crop.
Corn, total failure.
Cotton, bale to seven acres, average.

Bankers and merchants able to finance farmers. Judge opposed to state help.

When it is taken into consideration that 1916 was also drouthy in some of these counties where drouth prevailed this year, it can be readily seen that the people thereof are in a distressed condition.

The "spotted" condition of the rainfall is very noticeable, as some counties, not exactly confined to any particular section, report crop condition more favorable than even the average. And some counties report part drouth-stricken and part free.

Brief crop notations from many counties are compiled as follows:

CHAMBERS COUNTY.

Badly stricken with drouth.
Rice is principal crop; 30,000 acres, and it is for most part a failure.
Other crops are far below normal.

$25,000 SPENT FOR CAMP ROADS

Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of military roads are to be built at Camp MacArthur.

Lieut. Col. H. Erickson, division quartermaster of the camp, who has just arrived from San Antonio, was authorized by Major General James Parker, commander of Camp MacArthur, to start the road building immediately.

There will be five miles of roads connecting the various sections of the camp. These inter-communicating roads will be of the best construction—solid base and gravel top. They will be constructed to handle the heaviest of traffic and will be built to stand army motor truck traffic which is the hardest wear on roads of any self propelled vehicle traffic.

HUGE OUTLAY PLANNED FOR SCHOOL AT WACO BY U. S. GOVERNMENT.

An aviation school of the United States government comes to Waco.

The telegram containing news that papers had been signed between the government and representatives of Waco was received by the Waco Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock. The telegram came from President J. M. Penland of the Chamber of Commerce, who was in Washington, accompanied by W. W. Cameron and Edgar E. Witt. It follows:

Washington, D. C.,
August 24, 1:35 P. M.

Waco Chamber of Commerce, Waco, Texas.

Contract signed at 12:30 today. Leave tonight. I have engagement with Mr. Herbert Sunday morning in St. Louis, on trackage. Be home Texas Special Monday.

J. M. PENLAND.

Confers on Trackage.

The reference to a visit to St. Louis was to see President Herbert of the Cotton Belt. Tracks of this line run by the aviation field, and sidetracks can be provided. The Cotton Belt tracks pass to the east side of the aviation field, and the grounds as a whole which will be used for aviation purposes by the government comprise about 700 acres of land. The presumption is that the government is buying this land outright, though it was offered on both a lease and a sale basis.

School to Be Permanent.

The understanding is that the school is permanent, and all arrangements indicate this plainly. The 700 acres of land are located west of the city, comprising the Newburg Heights and a few tracts around this land. The land is a little more than half a mile beyond the city limits, on the west, and will be comparatively easy to reach with street railway service when the time comes.

While full plans have not been given out by the government, it has been stated semi-officially that expenditures by the government will reach $750,000 in buildings, these building to cover about forty acres and to be of permanent character. It also has been stated that there will be in the school from 1,500 to 2,000 instructors, aviation students, mechanics and helpers.

HOBBY ASSUMES OFFICE AS HOUSE VOTES CHARGES

CHARGES INCLUDE ALLEGATION THAT FERGUSON CONVERTED $5600 OF STATE'S MONEY FOR HIS OWN USE—ALL ARTICLES ADOPTED BY HOUSE BY SAFE AND WIDE MAJORITIES.

By Associated Press

Austin, Aug. 24.—James E. Ferguson was suspended from the office of governor of Texas shortly after 9 o'clock tonight, when the board of nine managers named by the house of representatives presented to the senate twenty-one articles of impeachment alleging official misconduct. W. P. Hobby, lieutenant governor, automatically succeeded to the governorship pending disposition of the charges in the senate. The senate formally designated next Wednesday as the time for beginning the trial.

Tonight's action was in conformity with a resolution adopted by the house yesterday in appointing the board of managers to form articles of impeachment after three weeks' investigation of charges preferred against Mr. Ferguson by Speaker Fuller. This committee reported to the house today and the twenty-one articles contained in the bill of impeachment were voted upon separately. All passed by a safe and some by a wide margin and were immediately sent to the senate, where the date of the beginning of the trial was set.

The charges involve the allegation that Mr. Ferguson p[illegible]ently refused to reveal the source of questionable loans aggre[illegible] $156,500, thus placing himself in contempt of the house; that he misappropriated $5600 of state money and converted it to his own use; that he abused the power of veto and violated the constitution when he vetoed practically the entire appropriations for the maintenance of Texas university for the next two years.

Juggling of State Funds.

Other charges confirmed allege the placing of large sums of state money without security and without interest in a bank in which Ferguson is a stockholder, allege violation of the state banking laws in that the governor borrowed from his own bank a sum more than twice greater than the law permits; allege exercise of undue and improper influence over the university regents, and that the governor failed to return to the state treasury several thousand dollars illegally expended for maintenance of the governor's mansion and which he had previously promised to restore.

Mr. Ferguson declined to discuss the proceedings tonight.

House Assumes Burden.

The house of representatives late today formally assumed responsibility for the prosecution of Governor James E. Ferguson on impeachment charges before the senate, through adoption of Article One of the bill drawn by its committee of managers.

The house of representatives late today formally assumed responsibility for the prosecution of Gov. James E. Ferguson on impeachment charges before the senate, through adoption of Artisle 1 of the bill drawn by its committee of managers.

This article charges the governor with misapplication of $5,600 of state money August 23, 1915. It was adopted by a vote of 84 to 50.

The article charges that "there was paid from the fund of the Canyon City Normal school" a note of $5,000 with $600 interest "due by James Ferguson to the First National bank of Temple, Texas," and "that said amount has never been refunded to the state of Texas." It further charges that in part payment of the total due for building the normal college, the governor "used other funds, a portion of which belonged to the state and the balance being in his hands as governor and deposited to his credit as governor in the American National bank of Austin.

Article Two, charging that the governor placed the funds of the Canyon City normal in his bank at Temple, where more than $20,000 remained for a year without interest, was adopted by a vote of 82 to 50.

Those $37,500 Notes.

The third article, charging that the transfer of two notes of $37,500 each from the Temple bank to the Houston National Exchange bank was a subterfuge to cover up the governor's obligations at the Temple bank, was adopted 72 to 58.

Article Four, charging the governor with duplicity in that he testified on the former investigation that he had paid $127,500 in cash to the Temple State bank, whereas $75,000 of it was represented by two notes on which he was the guarantor, was adopted by a vote of 76 to 54.

Article Five, charging that the governor testified in March that he was not indebted to the Temple State bank, whereas he owed it more than $5,000, was adopted 73 to 56.

Article Six, charging that the governor illegally deposited $60,000 of the secretary of state's funds in the Temple bany and received financial profit therefrom, was adopted 82 to 49.

Article Seven was adopted 79 to 47.
Article Eight was adopted 68 to 57.
Article Nine was adopted 79 to 47.
Article Ten was adopted 76 to 49.

ITALIAN DRIVE TAKES 20,500

500 ARE OFFICERS—60 GUNS OF VARIOUS CALIBER ALSO FALL TO ENTENTE.

By the Associated Press.

The Italian army still is hard after the Austrians all along the Isonzo and Carso fronts of the Austro-Italian theatre and aided by the Italian airmen, who are dropping bombs in great number behind the enemy lines, it has made further progress and taken additional prisoners and war stores.

Drive at Trieste Not Yet Week Old.

Already in the offensive, not yet a week old, 500 Austrian officers and 20,000 men have been sent behind the Italian lines, prisoners of war, and in the neighborhood of sixty guns of various caliber have been captured. On several sectors to the west the enemy has made offensives, probably hoping to distract the attention of the Italian commander-in-chief from the work he now has in hand, but seemingly there is little likelihood that for the moment at least, with his army working smoothly and the Austrians unable to withstand the pressure, he is to be diverted from his objective—Trieste.

UNCLE SAM IN LOAN TO RUSS

REAFFIRMS HIS FAITH IN NEW REPUBLIC BY $100,000,000 AID.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The United States reaffirmed today its faith in the new Russian democracy and gave concrete evidence of its confidence by loaning another $100,000,000 to the provisional government. Announcement of the loan came from the treasury department soon after Secretary Lansing had denied formally that reports from Russia were of an unfavorable nature, and that on the contrary confidential dispatches to the government were the basis for his belief that the administration at Petrograd was strengthening its position.

"I regard the government of Russia as stronger today than it has been for a month," Mr. Lansing said. "I mean in general both from political and military points of view."

under martial law. Nulen's appointment later was confirmed by General Parker in command of the southern department.

Indicative of the complete control now held by the white military forces is the announcement tonight that construction work at Camp Logan yesterday interrupted would be resumed on regular schedule Saturday morning.

Riots Began at 9 P. M.

The rioting Thursday night started about 9 o'clock. During the day the negro troops became inflamed against the Houston police because of the reported shooting of a negro surgeon by a police officer. Stealing company ammunition, about 125 of the negroes, seized their rifles and left their camp starting toward the city and shooting indiscriminately. Warning was immediately given and mounted police officers sought to stop the mob, surrendering their lives in vain effort. Illinois guardsmen encamped at Camp Logan soon arrived on the scene, but only in time to throw a cordon between the negroes and great crowds of Houston citizens who had armed themselves and quickly gathered to oppose the raiders.

Negroes Hunt Cover.

The negroes then took to the open country in flight, some returning to camp where they were placed under guard and others hiding in fields and ditches along the nearby road. Thirty-two squads of armed citizens, sworn in as deputy sheriffs, each squad with a captain in command, aided by the military forces during the day in the search of the San Felipe district for stragglers from the rioting negro bands. As fast as a negro soldier was found he was immediately placed in custody of either the civilian authorities or under guard at Camp Logan. In addition to the search of the residences and territory immediately surrounding the camp, auto patrols traversed the road, radiating from the city in all directions in quest of fugitives, in several instances with successful results.

Search in Early Hours.

While the armed forces devoted the daylight hour to this work, commanding officers under General Hulen were engaged in planning the protection of the camp through the coming night.

The additional force of approximately 600 men from Fort Sam Houston, detailed from the nineteenth infantry, arrived during the afternoon and was immediately disposed to best advantage after detraining.

Early in the day a detachment of coast artillery from Galveston arrived and relieved the Illinois national guardsmen who had been on patrol duty throughout the night without rest and these with the fresh troops from San Antonio assumed full control during the afternoon. Sentries placed on street corners in the business district during the morning were gradually withdrawn to a few streets where racial trouble might develop were under guard.

Much of the sentry duty during the early hours of the day had been left to Texas national guardsmen, who, lacking arms, were supplied with shotguns and rifles from the stocks of hardware concerns.

Business Ordered to Continue.

Business proceeded during the day in accordance with orders issued by General Hulen for all save authorized officers to go unarmed and to avoid gathering in groups on the streets to discuss the riot.

Saloons were closed and all clubs obliged to observe military order against the sale of liquor.

At Camp Logan building activities were at a standstill, workmen being refused admission through the guard lines established around the camp. In the residence district immediately adjacent to the camp site, many homes were deserted through fear of a possible retaliatory attack upon the negro troops by Houston citizens during the night.

Indignation Runs High.

Indignation over the outbreak was particularly expressed because of savageness displayed by the negroes against the police officers who were slain and whose bodies in nearly every instance had been hacked with bayonets. Among the Illinois guardsmen also much feeling was evidence because of the mutilation of Captain Mattes, one of the first to be slain by the rioters.

Because of this feeling, General Hulen at noon ordered the public morgues in which the bodies were held, to close their doors to all except the immediate relatives of the victims. Funeral arrangements for the victims of the riot were made during the afternoon. The four police officers who died fighting will be given a public funeral Sunday afternoon. Two youths slain, Earl Fendler and Frederick Winkler, will be buried Saturday and arrangements for the interment of the fourteen other dead are yet to be announced.

Brock Was Forewarned.

Chief of Police Brock during the day issued a statement concerning the cause of the riot, in which he asserted that both he and Lieutenant Shelergen of the twenty-fourth infantry had conferred for two hours Thursday afternoon regarding the possibility of an outbreak and preventive measures to be taken. Neither believed, however, the trouble would reach a crisis so early, the chief asserting fear only that a dispute between one of his officers and a negro surgeon might prove the spark to start a conflagration.

A scene, probably unique in the annals of the United States army was enacted at Camp Logan during the afternoon, when the 600 soldiers of the battalion of the Twenty-fourth negro infantry were disarmed. Flanked by a full battalion of the Nineteenth infantry under command of Col. M. F. Waltz, and three companies of the coast guard artillery from Fort Crockett, the negro soldiers were marched four abreast to the parade gounds, where their arms were stacked.

Scene Was Guarded.

Army trucks then loaded the rifles and ammunition and conveyed them to the store house, where they were placed under heavy guard. Surrounded by his own men with loaded rifles, Colonel Waltz then addressed the negroes, telling them they would be required to remain in camp, that they would be protected from violence, and that at the same time they would be prevented from committing further violence.

Tonight General Hulen removed certain of the restrictions of military law governing the city and county, regarding the passage of civilians through certain districts.

MAIN BODY OF GUARDS WILL NOT COME HERE UNTIL AFTER SEPT 1.

Reports from Washington to officers in charge here state that the troop movement of the main body of national guard troops of Michigan and Wisconsin will be started about September 1.

As there are more than 30,000 of these troops it will take many days to transport them to camp here. Four trains of thirty cars each are necessary for each regiment and as there are practically fourteen regiments yet to come it will take a week or more to land them at their camp here.

PLACE GUARDS ON LOCAL ROADS

WACO WAS A WELL GUARDED TOWN LAST NIGHT—NEGRO TROOPS TO LEAVE.

Waco was well guarded last night.

A hundred Michigan and Wisconsin national guardsmen patrolled the street leading to the army camp, to the camp of the Twenty-fourth U. S. infantry where the negro troops are stationed, and to all other points of the reservation. The negro guards patrolled their own camp boundaries.

All of the remainder of the reservation was guarded by the troopers from the north who have been sent to Camp MacArthur as an advance guard.

Search All Autos.

All automobiles going to and from the camp of the Twenty-fourth infantry were inspected by the guards to determine that they contained no soldiers.

On every cross road were to be seen at least half a dozen guards. Their rifles were loaded and their orders were to allow no soldiers out and no civilians in.

For the first time Wacoans on the downtown streets last night saw armed military police patrolling the streets. These provost guards were picked from among the Wisconsin and Michigan guard units now stationed at Camp MacArthur. They all carried their rifles and during the busy hours there were as many as four and five to be seen in each block on the principal streets.

Arrange for Transportation.

Capt. C. F. Andrews, commanding officer of the camp, who is in command of the negro troops, was arranging transportation for the battalion of the Twenty-fourth stationed here, as he expects orders today to take the unit back to Columbus. He has informed headquarters of the department that he is ready to entrain at any moment.

The work of guarding the entire camp has been taken over by the national guardsmen and from now on MacArthur will be under their protection.

The military police also will be a regular feature and every night the downtown streets as well as roads leading to the camp will be patrolled by provost guards.

BODY OF L. P. BAIN WILL BE INTERRED AT MEXIA

Early yesterday morning Rev. F. S. Groner, Mrs. L. P. Bain and Mrs. Howard Haygood arrived in Waco, the train in which they rode bearing the body of L. P. Bain, who was instantly killed in an auto wreck Thursday afternoon when a car, driven by Rev. Groner and containing Mr. and Mrs. Bain and Mrs. Haygood turned turtle over a high embankment on the Georgetown-Austin road near Round Rock. Funeral services of Mr. Bain will be held at Mexia, his former home. Mrs. Bain, physicians state, is not injured as seriously as the first examination and report asserted. She is getting along nicely. Both Rev. Groner and Mrs. Haygood are recovering from painful bruises, which proved to be the extent of their injuries.

SAY U. S. BOYS PLAN TO DRIVE THRU TO BERLIN

Special to the News.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Despite pro-German reports sent from this city, the big outstanding fact of this war game is that the American army expects to "bust" the German line and drive the kaiser's legions back to the Rhine and beyond.

Everything the American war department is doing is based on this expectation. That is one reason why War Secretary Baker has employed automobile engineers to produce standardized motor trucks.

"In a great drive, experience has shown soldiers can move faster than food and munitions can be brought to them," said Capt. W. M. Britton of the quartermaster general's office, charged with providing motor transport. If the Germans had perfected their motor transport in the early days of the war they would have been in Paris.

"We are not going to make any such mistake. When the time comes to get our men to the front in force and to make our drive, we will be prepared.

Back to Berlin.

"For we are going to drive the Germans out of their trenches, back into Berlin, and we are not going to fail for lack of food and ammunition. That is where the motor truck comes in.

"Our allies are using thousands of American commercial motor trucks; and are apparently find them all right. But these are being used on the splendid highways of France back of the front, roads that are constantly being kept in the best state of repair. When our troops were in Mexico they found that some of the trucks found useful in France were absolutely useless.

"Conditions back of the German lines will be worse than in Mexico. They will be shell-pitted and the retreating Germans will do all they can to ruin them and to impede our progress. We will need trucks which can go forward under any conditions.

"That is why we are standardizing

"That is why we want a standardized ton-a-half truck and a standardized three-ton truck. We will not put a lot of experimental devices in these trucks or get some experts to make a truck on paper and recommend it.

"We will build experimental trucks and work them day and night, putting them to every test to make sure the design is right and that they are constructed properly in every detail.

Gear Up Plants.

"Once this is demonstrated, we will ask the bigger manufacturers to gear up their plants for making trucks by the thousands. Standardization of all the parts means a final speeding up of quality production and means making it easier to keep duplicates of all parts for quick repairs.

"We shall need about 50,000 trucks. The ordinary divisional train consists of 140 cargo trucks. The munition trains contain about 400 trucks.

"The great cry for the trucks will come when our army moves forward and gets away from rail communications. By that time we confidently expect, with the aid of American automotive engineers and American truck builders, to have our great fleets of trucks ready for war work."

GERMAN SCIENTISTS HAVE FIGURED 2 YR FOOD LOSS

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Two more years of war will reduce the entire world to the same shortage of food as now exists in Germany, according to scientists in that country who have compiled statistics to support their statements. According to this statement, the German government is urging its people to continue the war two years more, declaring that if it is done, Germany cannot be defeated.

The Girl's Job

By JESSIE ROBERTS

"I don't see why so many girls seem to think that they can leave their manners and their sense behind them when they go off on their vacations," remarked the observant woman. "I've come down here for a rest, and most of my time I've had to spend lying in a hammock, with nothing to do but look on and wonder. There are some lovely girls here, some with their mothers, others alone or with some girl chum.

"But you would be surprised to see how free most of them are, aspecially these who are here by themselves, to make friends with any of the men who turn up at week'ends or who are having their own vacations and there are several men here who are not the sort of men a nice girl shoud be friendly with. Yet all these men have to do is to ask, and the girls go off boating or driving without hesitation. Of course a girl wants a good time when she is on her vacation, but a good time doesn't necessarily mean that you have to accept invitations from second rate men, nor should it mean that you have to yell and shriek, and generally be as boisterous as a school of boys let out to play.

"A vacation is a time for lexation and amusement. But it does not mean that it pays a girl to be loud, rough, easy with her friendships and careless of her dignity simply because she is at some lake or sea or mountain resort.

MRS. BLOMEYER FOR MRS. McRAE OF AUSTIN

Mrs. W. W. McRae of Austin, who is visiting relatives in the city, was asked to spend Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Blomeyer. She arrived to find a pleasant surprise in the presence of several old friends, with whom she had been intimate while a resident of Waco. A chatty, informal afternoon was spent on the lawn, where the eight or nine children who had accompanied their mothers played also. Knitting needles and crochet hooks were busy all the afternoon. Grape punch and sandwiches were served by the hostess before they took leave of the honoree.

Those present were:

Mesdames—
H. C. Hafer
James Lemond
Charles Eichelberger
L. B. Gardner
H. S. Cochran of Missouri
W. W. McRae of Austin
O. M. Weatherby

Misses—

YOUNG GIRLS HAVE KNITTING CLUB

A knitting club has been formed among the young girls of grammar school age, "just for fun." Knitting needles are being plied by young and old, and the middle-aged, too, and not all of the work is for the Red Cross. Now that the lost art has been revived, girls are beginning to find out how attractive are sweaters and scarfs of bright yarns, and this little club of girls has been organized for their own benefit. It meets on Wednesday and Saturday mornings. This Wednesday's meeting was with Miss Alzene Lazenby and the girls meet again this morning with Miss Bertie Parker at 9:30 o'clock.

The members are:

Misses—
Bertie Parker

KILL-KARE KLUB WITH MRS. HOTCHKISS

The Kill-Kare Klub has been one of the most faithful of the clubs, Not a week has been missed, even in the hot months and the membership has kept up well. The summer has been more bearable on account of the really happy Thursdays which the members have spent together.

The meeting this week was with Mrs. W. Y. Hotchkiss. Her color scheme in house decorations and refreshments was yellow and white, very prettily carried out. The ice cream was in squares of yellow and white and the cake was iced in yellow and white. Mrs. H. T. Holton carried away first prize, a string of beads, and Mrs. Joe Morgan cut consolation, a pair of pearl ear screws. The club meets next Thursday with Mrs. Woody Hunt, 1217 Vermont. Miss Lloyd Larkin was the only guest outside the club members.

Mrs. Gobbler Settles the Question.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The instant Mrs. Gobbler stepped into sight from the bushes Big Tom swelled himself out, spread his tail like a great fan and dropped his wings just as he had been doing when Peter first saw him. It was clear that he was trying to look important. And he did look important. In fact Peter never had seen any one who looked half as important. And he never had seen any one strut as Big Tom did.

But Mrs. Gobbler paid him no attention whatever. Indeed she hardly gave him a glance. She merely looked about with eyes that seemed even sharper than those of Big Tom and again asked him who he had been talking to. Then she saw Peter, and of course, she knew.

"My goodness!" she exclaimed. "We never go anywhere that we do not find some of the Rabbit family. And they always have long ears. What have you been telling him?"

"Nothing my dear. It is he who has been telling me things," replied Big Tom. "I have been asking Brer Rabbit about this place, which he says is called the Green Forest, and what dangers they may be."

"Well," replied Mrs. Gobbler sharply, "what dangers are there?"

"All the usual ones that we always have had and another we dont know anything about," replied Big Tom, who by this time had forgotten to strut.

"What is that, or who is it?" Mrs. Gobbler's voice sounded anxious and she looked worried.

"Well, we've got to watch out for a fellow something like Brer Fox only bigger and smarter and gray instead of red. He is called Old Man Coyote," according to Brer Rabbit here," explained Big Tom.

Mrs. Gobbler turned to Peter and began to pour out questions so fast that he had hard work to keep up with them. He told her all that he had told Big Tom about Old Man Coyote, and she didn't once take her eyes from him while he talked. It rather flattered Peter to receive such close attention. At the last he told her how in the fall the hunters with terrible guns no longer came as they used to, because Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's boy would not let them, and how because of this it was perfectly safe there while all about on other land no one was safe until the hunting season was over.

"It's the most wonderful place in all the great world," declared Peter with shining eyes.

"That settles it," declared Mrs. Gobbler. "That settles it. If we can't keep out of the way of Old Man Coyote we deserve to be caught, but these hunters with terrible guns are another matter and if there is any place in the wide, wide world where they do not come that is the place for us. We'll stay right here and make our home. That's what we will do. From what little I have looked about this seems like very good Turkey country. I rather think we shall enjoy living here."

"It's the most wonderful place in all the Great World," declared Peter with shining eyes.

Mrs. Gobbler gave him a funny sidewise glance. "How much of the Great World have you seen?" she asked.

"A—a—" Peter stopped, too confused to say another word. The truth is he never had been beyond the Green Forest, the Green Meadows, the Old Pasture, and the Old Orchard. These make up all of the Great World that Peter really knows anything about.

TEMPORARY BUILDINGS MAY BE IMPERATIVE IN WACO

There was some discussion Friday of the movement which has started looking to building some temporary structures in Waco to accommodate army camp amusement places, cafes, cold drink stands, shining parlors and the like.

While the fire hazard was mentioned by some of those discussing the matter, others thought that Waco will be compelled by conditions to allow some kind of temporary construction on Franklin and Washington streets in order to draw a part of the congestion and jam from Austin street. The matter is one which probably will come up prominently in the near future, as numbers of persons are figuring on various projects for vacant lots on streets other than Austin street.

FORMER WACO PASTOR MADE STOP-OVER HERE

Rev. R. G. Bowers, former pastor of Columbus Street Baptist church, was in Waco Friday and met a host of old friends.

He now is at Paducah, Ky., but had been to Denver, Colo., in response to insistent requests. Parties in Denver were very anxious to have him take charge of a big Baptist college, but he declined this work, and his labors in Paducah are such that he does not wish to relinquish them now. He stated to the Denver parties before going there that there was small likelihood of his accepting the school work, but they insisted and offered to pay all expenses.

For the American Woman

WOULD YOU LIKE ROAST CROW?

By MARY E. WALTER.

Imagine your table spread with such delicacies as roasted crow, young whale's meat, sparrows en brochette or scrambled plover's eggs! Imagine serving bread made of flour mixed with wood pulp! Hardly a fare to inspire you with energy for war.

Yet such food is found in the markets of Berlin, says an Englishman who was leturer in a German university, who has just been allowed to leave, Germany, after wide oportunity to observe food conditions.

A pound of meat a week was the allowance per person in Berlin, one seventh of a pound a day, and "such meat!" the lecturer, F. Sefton Delmer, described it. The average man requires daily, according to dietitians, about a third of a pound of protein food such as meat, as body builder. The Berlin ration is less than half enough.

Limited meat allowance is no hardship if one has other protein foods—beans, peas, lentils, fish, cheese, ham, bacon, sausage were as precious as diamonds in Berlin. Milk was restricted to children and invalids. Eggs were distributed three per person a fortnight. This means a terrible limitation of body repair foods.

Fat also is a body necessity. The average man needs about 900 calories in fat, which means about 41-2 ounces of fat each day. The Berlin ration ticket allowed one and three-fourths ounces of butter and one ounce of margarine a week. The big pat of butter you had for breakfast was about half an ounce, three such pats a day, an ounce and a half. But you also get abundant fat in your other food. The Berlin weekly ration of two and three-fourths ounces of fat a week was supplemented by no fat-yielding foods, cream, milk, cheese, fat meats, eggs, fish and is a scanty day's ration.

Sugar and starch are vital food elements, found in bread, vegetables and sugar. Bread allowance, when Mr. Delmer was in Berlin, was three and a half pounds a week, potatoes five. Rice was wanting, fresh vegetables tragically few. Oatmeal, canned vegetables, barley, eac., were distributed one article a week in stingy portions. Jam made of mangold, beet root and sacharin was doled out, a pound to a person, only three times last winter. The wood flour bread, which is made from a secretly practised method, and for which the Russian forests are cut down has a questionable nutrient value and points to food desperation.

Sugar was dispensed twelve ounces a fortnight, less than an ounce a day, about five scant tablespoons, for cooking, sweetening and all. Yet in an average day's dietary for a woman, given by M. S. Rose in "Feeding and Family," one ounce of sugar is allowed merely for table use. Four dishes beside in this dietary are cooked with sugar, which goes to build a woman's energy.

If this war will be won on the stomachs of the combatants, by the side having the last ton of grain, by the best fed citizens and soldiers, then what of Germany, lacking in the four food elements, protein, fat, sugar, starch, that are vital to body and brain to physical and moral stamina?

To win this war against a "people gone mad," let us heed every word that is uttered on food conservation.

OUR BOYS AT HOME.

WE have been welcoming thousands of northern troopers to Waco.

Scores of our own boys are in camps over the city, awaiting the call to Camp Bowie at Fort Worth.

Recently a local company of coast artilery went to Galveston. It was bid God-speed by the handshakes of friends and the tears of mothers. The eyes of the rest of us in Waco were turned northward.

Is it not fitting that Waco's own sons have a good-bye as sincere and inspiriing as our "How do you do" to the Wisconsin and Michigan soldiers?

Local companies will be called to Fort Worth at a moment's notice. Our civic leaders should have plans for a parade and God-speed worked out and publicly announced, so that there may be no hitch in carrying out a demonstration which will be remembered through the long, arduous months of training at camp, in the nights of dodging the submarines, at the moment of the charge in Flanders.

TRAFFIC SUGGESTIONS.

WITH one-tenth of the Camp MacArthur soldiers in town Wacoans are beginning to realize the traffic congestion that will come to us when the full thirty thousands of visitors come to Waco because of the camp and aviation.

Nothing has been done toward handling the auto parking situation.

There has been a better control of congestion at downtown corners by traffic policemen.

But present conditions are child's play to handle compared with what we are soon to face.

The News suggests the following for the earnest consideration of the city commission at a special meeting on traffic which should be called immediately.

1. White mark safety zones at street crossings and street car loading points so that even a young child may know what the white mark means.

2. Educate traffic officers to see that autos and wagons really "move." Quick motion is the only solution of traffic congestion at busy intersections.

3. Make the pedestrians as amenable to traffic regulations as drivers. The "jay walker" who dashes across the street between intersections or cuts across corners outside of plainly marked safety zones is as big a menace to traffic as is the reckless auto driver.

With necessary authority and more traffic officers the people will look to Commissioner Ben Richards to see that the traffic job is well handled.

Other than the above suggestions the serious question of auto parking has to be settled.

YOUR VACATION PLACE.

EVEN those who take their vacations along in the waning end of the summer season must give thought to ways and means of avoiding extreme heat if they are to return to city tasks refreshed and in good health.

Much summer sickness and a great deal of uncomfortableness may be avoided if reasonable care is exercised in the choice of a vacation place.

Ordinarily the questions which are asked when one is seeking a place for the holidays are about the character of the food and bed, the extent of the social life and the opportunity for games and sports.

These are important but they are of secondary importance as compared with the question of the healthfulness of the locality in which it is intended to rest during the warm days. Vacation sanitation, in other words, should be considered.

Don't choose a place where the water supply comes from a stream which receives the drainage of human habitations or place where the water is drawn from a shallow well or a well that is apt to receive the drainage of outhouses.

One of the things which is desired by city folk in the country is milk. And milk which is produced by dirty cows in a dirty stable and handled by dirty hands is unfit for human consumption. The best advertisement any country resort can have is a clean, airy, wholesome dairy in which clean cows are milked by clean laborers.

Don't go to a summer resort where the windows and doors are not carefully screened. Flies, mosquitoes and other insects are dangerous carriers of disease germs and are to be avoided.

IT DOESN'T LOOK LIKE WAR, BUT

IT DOESN'T look like war in Waco, does it—except for an occasional parade or brass band, or a flag raising, or something of that sort.

True, there are the national guardsmen at Camp MacArthur, the Red Cross work and the Liberty Bonds—but there are no ruined homes, nor torpedoed skyscrapers, and our streets are just as they were before, and we go to our lunches as we always did.

The war is on the other side of the ocean, we say. So it is. And we probably won't wake up to the fact that we are really in the fight until some of our own boys come back from the trenches to be taken care of by the government or by their own friends, until they are ready to go back.

Perhaps then we will understand that France is on her knees and that England may soon be hungry—and that if we don't wake up from our sleep soon we will not be paying for Liberty bonds, but for war indemnities.

WHAT ARE WE FIGHTING FOR?

WHAT are we fighting for?" Well, for one thing, to protect the precious hides of the half-wits, ingrates and chatterers who ask the question—altho that's an incidental part of the job which is becoming distasteful.

If the whole crowd could be gathered up and shipped into Prussia maybe some of them would learn at last "What we are fighting for."

The man who asks the question really makes an assertion. He declares that he is either mentally defective or a traitor.

THE SIMPLEST AND THE HARDEST CIPHER.

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Speaking of ciphers and secret codes, do you know that one of the most ingenious is what is called the Biliteral Cipher, and is atributed to the mighty minded Lord Bacon, who, with his two fellows, Leonardo da Vinci and Benjamin Franklin, holds the palm not only for amazing intellectual achievement, but also for profound and baffling intellectual foolery?

This Biliteral Cipher is one anybody can use, and comes very near being utterly incomprehensible to those who have not the key.

Here, for instance, is an example of an alphabet in two letters:

aaaaa.	aaaab.	aaaba.	aaabb.	aabaa.
F	G	H	I	K
aabab.	aabba.	aabbb.	abaaa.	abaab.

In using this you take any written or printed matter, say an ordinary newsy letter or a page from a book, and indicate,, beginning with the first letter on the page, the letters of your secret message by making each group of five letters on your code, putting a tiny dot, we will say, under the letters that correspond to the b's in the code, and leaving the a's unmarked.

For example, take this article you are now reading. You cut it out and send it to a friend, and want to say to him, secretly, "Sell your Steel stock!"

The first letter in your secret message is S. S we see is baab. So put a dot under the first and fifth letters in the article, that is, under the S and K of the word "speaking."

The next five letters must represent E. This, we see, by consulting our code, is aabaa.. So we put a dot under the third letter of the second group of five letters in the article; that is, under the g in "speaking."

"Speak," then, the first five letters, with a dot under the S and K, make S; and "ing of" being the second group of five letters, with a dot under the g, makes "e."

The next group is "ciphe," and as L is ababa we dot the i and h.

The next letter being also L (ababa) we dot the s and n in the five group of "rs and."

You now see that the first words of the article, "Speaking of ciphers and," can be made secretly to convey to your correspondent, who has a similar code key to your own, the word "Sell," which we do by puttin a dot under each of the letters "S—k—g—i—e—s—n." And in like manner you can give the rest of your message, "your Steel stock."

You need not use exactly this code, but can alter it as you choose, only being careful that your fellow conspirator has a duplicate of your own.

I have seen a great many systems of cipher codes, but regard this, with its possible variants, as about the most ingenius and unsolvable of all. It is worthy of the great mind to whom its authorship is attributed.

This, by the way, is one of the devices by which the Bacon-Shakespeare enthusiasts claim to prove Bacon's authorship of Shakespeare's writings.

Now, therefore, the next time you want to send word to Tom to meet you by the old mill at I a. m. or to warn Mabel that the red-headed woman is plotting mischief, all you need to do is to write a perfectly innocent letter about the pigs and chickens, or send a clipping from the newspaper, and use the dots according to the Biliteral Cipher.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, Aug. 24.—He was a pint sized messenger boy, in the blue full speed uniform of his difficult calling. He was proceeding up Sixth Avenue in heavy ballast. He had two suit cases which were a little too wide and a little too long, and altogether too heavy, and his expression indicated that any moment he might throw down the burden and throw up the job.

At Thirty-eighthth street another messenger boy with his hands in his pockets and a cigarette at a ninty angle saw the burden bearer and broke right into a loud and long guffaw.

"Oh boy," he bellowed, "Looka the camel. How many families are y movin? Got time to fetch the Woolworth Tower downtown?"

"Me arms is broke," said the struggling lad, plumping down the suit cases, "but believe me, if I ever get these birdies over to the Gran' Central I'm going to get real tilt—the kind that spends, y' otto see the guy throw money around. He's looser than ashes with his change."

"He buys every one cigars and drinks and he's half packed himself now. I'm going to meet him at the Gran' Central an' I guess he'll get there on his hands and knees or rollin' along. He's liquored up like an Eighth Avenue husband on pay day."

"What's in the bags anyhow?" asked the other curiously.

The burden bearer got a hold on them and prepared to proceed.

"Aw, the guy is a traveller," he said. "I guess he's got some samples or anchors or anvils, or somethin'."

When Mr. Kane Wells left Paulding, a suburb of Dayton, Ohio., where they make the machines that keep an industrious bartender from knocking down more than $4.35 a day, he had a perfectly correct full set of upper teeth. The Painless Person of Paulding had worked with master hand to make those teeth storm fire flood burglar and accident proof.

He had anchored them like unto the cable foundations of the Brooklyn Bridge, and the owner had tested them upon Cincinnati steak, which is supposed to be the ultimate post-graduate examination to pass false teeth into the A1 class.

The other day Mr. Wells stacked his Ohio made incisor and molars against an ear of corn at the Hotel Majestic. He negotiated the first row when the prize teeth volplaned into open space. Nowhere were the teeth to b found. The head waiter instructed the linen room to search all linen carefully for them.

"Ib is hawed 'oo 'alk 'ifout 'em" said Mr. Wells.

Seen around town: A tired subway worker taking a nap in a graveyard on upper Broadway. A woman carrying a dog under one arm and a baby under another, racing for a train. A man wearing a pink silk shirt chewing tobacco. A limousine occupied by a negro in a silk hat driven by a French chaffeur. A former hero college athlete demonstrating razors in a drug store window. A Wall Street Banker going to work in his shirt sleeves. A cabaret performer pouring over a tract in Christian Science. A celebrated cartoonist in his sailor uniform. A Greek boy scout band playing the national anthem. A beach girl in evening clothes with V. shaped tan spotches on her neck and back.

The new magazine is called The Wallop, and it is intended to muss up a few conventions that are so distasteful to the inhabitants of the celebrated section. Every day we read of three or four patriots in this country changing the names of their dogs from "kaiser" to to "Uncle Sam."

There must have been a reason for naming a dog Kaiser.

And why change the name to Uncle Sam.

More light, please.

Nothing can happen in this world which does not cause a rise in the price of tires. A famine in China will send tires up 10 per cent., and when a patent leather patriot in Venezuela gets a bum on, borrows a revolver and starts another revolution tires jump 20 per cent. An epidemic of scarletina in Switzerland will send tires up 30 per cent. When you see a man with an extra tire on his car he is a millionaire.

WAR SONG NO. 89,145.

In the dining room we sit, thinking, mother dear, of you.
And the good old feeds we had long years ago.
When there were not meatless days, and a little meal for two
Didn't set our savings back a year or so.

Save, save, save, the boys are marching,
Cheer up, comrades, and be gay.
If we cannot go and fight, we can curb the appetitie,
And we'll whip the enemy in the cafe.

Letters from the People

To the Editor:

A young lady, richly dressed, rushed into the telephone pay station of a small town telephone office. She had received a rush call from her mother. Her brother was leaving the next day for Long Island. From there he would continue his journey to France, and maybe to his grave. Upon receiving this news, the young lady broke down in tears. The operator noticed this and put her arms around her and tenderly caressed her. The operator's brother was going to France, too.

The rich girl became indignant at the operator's comparison of the brothers. She seemed to think that her brother was better than the operator's brother, but before she left the office she was convinced that her brother and the operator's brother were equals, and that the operator was her brother's betrothed.

CHILDHOOD'S RIGHTS.

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

Childhood has rights which society is bound to respect. Failure to recognize and respect these rights is an injury to the child and to society itself.

It is a right of childhood to grow through play. To deprive children of play is as fatal to their healthy development as to deprive flowers of sunshine.

Play has a serious purpose. It helps children to work off surplus nervous energy; it promotes their physical growth; and it is an important factor in their mental growth likewise.

For the same reason it is a right of childhood to be joyous. Joy and its accompaniment laughter are body-building and mind-building. Of them childhood should not be robbed.

Show me a sad and gloomy child and I will show you one who, in later life, is more than likely to be a dull, perhaps vicious being, bringing sadness and gloom to others.

But if it is a right of childhood to be joyous, it also is a right of childhood to be wisely disciplined.

To let a child "run wild," to give him his own way in everything, may create in him temporary joy. But it sows the seeds of future sorrow.

The child needs to be guided, needs frequently to be restrained, but by gentle, loving means, not through the agency of fear.

To be loved is indeed one of the fundamental rights of childhood. Love itself makes for joy in the heart of the child, and thereby improves the child's chances for later health and success.

It is a further right of childhood to be given a material environment that creates cheerful, joyous sentiments.

Rich or poor, parents can always give their children such an environment. It is not a question of bestowing on the child costly gifts or surrounding him with luxurious furnishings.

It is merely a question of keeping the home bright, clean, and furnished in good taste.

Children, again, has the right to nourishing food as well as to surroundings of aesthetic and hygienic helpfulness.

Poverty here acts too often as an almost insuperable obstacle to granting childhood this right. Society, therefore, should try earnestly to solve the problem of poverty.

Finally, it is a right of childhood to be trained early to think effecticely and about worth-while things.

Otherwise lifelong habits of wrong thinking may be formed in the child. These faulty habits will have as their product a lifetime of inferiority.

These are not the only rights of childhood, but they are among the most important rights and also among the rights most commonly ignored. It is because of this that so many children develop into unhappy, inefficient, and perhaps dangerous members of society.

This is a truth society cannot too soon take to heart. The problem of coping with insanity, crime, vice and incompetency is essentially a problem of recognizing and granting to childhood its rights.

"HETTY"

BROWN THRUSH HETTY BECOMES A BIRD OF FAIR PLUMAGE.

BEGIN HERE.

Hetty Anderson, 22, comes from Rogers and settles in a cheap boarding house on Franklin street, securing work at the Bethlehem Machinery company, of which Baker is president and Durham manager. She makes the acquaintance of Billy Matthews, a man of some means, and very attractive to women. After a brief courtship he offers to marry her, but she refuses, and he pursues her, until all ends in a stormy interview at Cameron park. Her work at the office is proving satisfactory, but there is bad blood between Jackson, a salesman, and Baker and Durham. Walter Barton, a wholesome young man of the society set, comes is to see Grant Baker, the bookkeeper and nephew of the president, and asks Hetty to take part in amateur theatricals at the Country club. She consents, the play being "Midsummer Night's Dream," in which Hetty has played previously in her home town. She is received coldly, but determines to see it through. Jim Karnes, a country lover, comes to town and tries to force Hetty to marry him, showing a license already made out. She teards it up and sends him away. Through jealousy of Durham's wife, Hetty works late on the night of the first rehearsal, but is assisted by Walter Barton, and gets to rehearsal before it is over.

Acquaintance on a platonic basis is begun in Walter Barton's runabout after rehersal.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

I went luncheonless Wednesday, spending the noon hour in a frantic search for the right kind of dress. At last I found it at a woman's specialty shop. As the month was August the new fall styles were coming in.

The tight skirt was not yet at its height; that is, no hobbles were yet being worn by conservative people. The material was a rich, dark green, which lay in long soft pleats from the shoulder down. The waist was confined with a belt embroidered in queer designs of red, purple and black, and the organdy collar and cuffs were embroidered in red dots outlined in black.

"It makes you look sixteen," the salesgirl flattered me. "It is just the thing for you. The dark green and the rich colors in the belt bring out the lights in your hair and eyes." I turned round and round before the glass, as if extremely critical. I lifted its lustrous folds and pretended to examine the cloth with the eye of an expert.

"Will it wear well?" I demanded.

"Yes; it is the chiffon taffeta, which does not wrinkle or split," she answered glibly. "It's a dream. And it is so cheap. Only twenty-five dollars. And it won't have to be altered a bit."

My head swam. I had never in my wildest dreams thought of spending the princely sum of twenty-five dollars for one dress. Wedding dresses in our town cost as high as twenty dollars sometimes, and the coat suits fifteen. With an effort I kept the dismay out of my face.

"I don't believe I care for this," I fibbed. "Could you show me something on this order but not quite so expensive?"

The interest left the face of the girl as she brought out a queer looking dress, which shrieked cheap from every fold.

"No," I protested, "I don't want that."

"I knew you wouldn't. Really, dearie, it's better economy to pay twenty-five for a dress like this than to get two twelve fifty dresses. You will always look chic and well dressed in this. It is suitable for street, church and evening wear," she recited.

"But I haven't the money and won't have before I get my check," I stammered.

"We give credit. Let me take you to the manager.

"Mr. Levy, this young lady wants this dress, but can't pay for it until the middle of the month, when she gets her check."

"I am Miss Hetty Anderson. I work for the Bethlehem Machinery company," I told him, ashamed of the whole ordeal.

"How much do you make?" he inquired impersonally.

"Fifty dollars a month."

"Give her the dress and any other small things she wants," he waved us off.

A pretty white felt hat with a dark green band was added to the dress before I left the shop, elated with my purchases but with a tiny fright lurking ready to spring out and devour the elation.

After I had dressed that evening and was waiting in embarrassment on the front porch, Mrs. Joe came out and took her seat beside me. Her usually jolly face was grave.

"I'm worried about Billy-boy," she said wearily as she smoothed her searched apron with hands that trembled.

"Why, what's the matter with Billy-boy " I was genuinely alarmed and concerned.

"Nothing much, I s'pose. May Simmons fed him some boiled ham and corn yesterday and he looks wilted today. Poor little kid! If people would mind their own business, half of the little graves on the hillside wouldn't be there.

I was dumb before the bitterness and agony in her voice, but took one of her hands. The caustic tongued, wise-headed woman had become dear to me.

"I tell you, Hetty, I have stood just about as much as I can stand here. I do nearly all the work and Maw Simmons trails around after me, pretending to do the work over, just to humiliate me. I hate her!"

"But you know she loves Joe and Billy," I soothed her.

"Loves them? Of course she does. She's just jealous because they love me. But even when a woman does love a baby she can kill it by indulgence. She knows I don't want him to have candy and ice tea and heavy meats and things like that, and she takes delight in giving them to him. If Billy should die of summer complaint it would be her fault," she sobbed.

The arrival of the runabout interrupted us. For a minute I was sorry to leave her. I seemed kin to her, drawn to her and bound by the great law that binds poor folks. The handsome boy striding down the walk was nothing to me.

In full sight of him, I stooped and kissed the sob-racked woman, not caring a bit what he thought of her blondined head, showing brown around the edges.

FREE SHOW AT OLD GLORY THEATRE.

The Old Glory theatre, which is located at the entrance of the army camp, on Nineteenth street, will be opened Saturday night, August 25, with a very appropriate program, "Somewhere in France," played by the noted "Siren of the Screen," Louise Glaum. This is one of the Triangle's very best productions, in which Louise Glaum and Howard Hickman are co-stars.

This picture portrays the intrigues, the spying system, and the detective work in war ridden France.

If you enjoy a picture that holds you in suspense until the very end, a story so true to life in the present crisis, a story that is so gripping that you do not notice the passing moments, you should see "Somewhere in France."

The theatre will seat two thousand people, and all are cordially invited to attend. The show is for both soldiers and civilians. Admission Saturday evening free to all.

TANKS CLOSE UP IN BRITISH WAR FILM.

You have heard a great deal about the tank, that weird creature of modern warfare.

You's doubtless seen many photographe of them. And you've wondered how they looked in action.

One of the most exciting moments of the British war pictures, which the Rex is bringing to Waco today, is when a massive tank loads up with men and crawls out toward the trenches of the Boches.

It wasn't done merely for the sake of the picture. That is where the excitement comes in. The camera man was on the spot when this particular tank was called into action during the historic battle of the Ancre.

A tank is awe-inspiring just to look at. But when it is seen, rumbling away over barbed wire barriers and ditches, using its own track, the feeling is indescribable.

Several tanks of various sizes are shown in the film.

A peculiar feature of the British tank, aside from its odd construction, is the singular colors with which its side are painted. It is sort of mottled—thus, in order to make it hard for the enemy aviator to discern.

The British soldiers assigned to the tank go about their duties very calmly and methodically, despite the great danger they run, as the picture shows.

At one point in the film a tank returns "home" victorious from a brush with the Germans. The soldiers, wild with joy, leap on to its sides and cheer and cheer.

In other features the British war pictures stand without an equal. They are absolutely authentic, having been taken by the British government.

The pictures will be shown at the Rex theatre today, Saturday—the price will be 10c and 20c, and the proceeds go to the Red Cross war relief fund.

The Price of Peace Is Prussianism Destroyed

"There can be no peace until Prussianism is destroyed," says the New York World, in answer to the Pope's peace proposal. "Whether it is destroyed from without or from within rests mainly with the German people themselves, but destroyed it must be if there is to be peace in the world. That is now the beginning and the end of the war aims of the Allies, and unless achieved, autocracy has triumphed and German militarism is master of civilization."

"Germany must be beaten and know she is beaten," says the Louisville Post. And the Chicago Herald warns us that a peace on the Pope's terms "would be a truce not a peace."

Not only do strong supporters of the war dismiss the "Pope's Peace" as a German peace, while they urge strenuous waging of war till Germany is made either "powerless or free," but pacifists, Socialists and German-Americans agree in predicting the failure of the new papal efforts at mediation.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST of August 25th is an interesting article reflecting the opinions of the Press of the country on this newest of the peace proposals.

LAFAYETTE AIR CORPS HONORED

AMERICAN SQUADRON CITED IN ORDERS FROM GENERAL PETAIN.

By the Associated Press.

Grand Headquarters of the French Army, Thursday, Aug. 23.—The Lafayette Squadron, composed of American airmen, enlisted in the French aerial service, was cited in army orders today for its courage and spirit of sacrifice. The citation signed by General Petain, commander in chief of the French armies, operating on the French front follows:

"The squadrills, composed of American volunteers, who have come to France to fight in the pure spirit of sacrifice, have fought incessantly under the command of Capt. Georges Thenault, who formed it for ardent fight against our enemies. The squadrilla has brought down twenty-eight enemy airplanes, it has aroused profound admiration of commanders who have had it under their orders, and also of the French squadrilias who are fighting beside it and who have desired to rival it in valor."

WILSON MAY TALK BEFORE CONGRESS ON PEACE VIEWS

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 24.—President Wilson may decide to address congress on peace and at the same time make reply to Pope Benedict's proposal. In that way he would take the national legislative body into his confidence and also enable members of congress to carry the government's views home to the people when congress adjourns. It is understood that the president will have before him soon the substance of replies Great Britain and France will make to the pope. It seems to be generally accepted in diplomatic officials that the pope's proposals cannot be accepted.

BAKER AWAITING HOUSTON PROBE

WAR DEPARTMENT TO TAKE NO ACTION UNTIL RIGID INQUIRY MADE.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Secretary Baker will take no action on the rioting in Houston, Texas, in which negro regular troops were concerned, until the report of the board of inquiry into the incident has been received. Whatever is done, he said late today, would be based on the findings of that board. Mr. Baker would not discuss in any way the policy of training additional colored troops in southern states. Senators and members of congress from Texas and other states of the south called on him during the day to discuss the subject. There have been protests before against the department's policy of sending negro guardsmen or those drafted for the national army to training camps designated for their states. Only a brief report on the Houston incident had come tonight from Major General Parker, commanding the southern department, and also professed ignorance of General Parker's order transferring the troops involved. The message gave no details of the rioting and said the cause of the outbreak was unknown at the time the message was sent.

Ask Rigid Probe.

The department directed that full particulars be forwarded promptly, but as order had been restored when the first message was sent, it was assumed General Parker would make an attempt to clear up the origin of the order before sending his report.

That regular troops should be involved in the rioting means that drastic measures of a disciplinary nature will be taken when the facts are known. The fact that the outbreak took place during a war makes the outbreak far more serious than it would otherwise be. Drumhead court-martial law could be applied, but on the other hand the government may feel inclined to leave punishment of offenders of civil laws to civil authorities. The department expects a very careful investigation to be made by the board of inquiry which would bring to light and show what share, if any, peace officers or other civilians had in the trouble as well as fixing the degree or guilt of every soldier involved.

Question in Congress.

It is regarded as probable that the entire question of sending colored troops to southern states for training will be brought up in congress before the department receives its final report.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The first break in the food embargo to European neutrals came today on conditions imposed by the United States. SAY BENEDICT SAW GERMANS

GOT THEIR VIEWS ON RESTORATION OF TERRITORY BEFORE ACTING.

By the Associated Press.

London, Aug. 24.—Telegrams received here from Rome say that certain persons at the Vatican interpreting the papal peace note assert that Pope Benedict believes that an indemnity is necessary for the restoration of Belgium and northern France, and also that the pope takes the view of the restoration of Serbia is essential, but did not mention it in his note, as he believed the whole Balkan question could be dealt with more effectively in negotiations as a separate problem. From the same source it is said that issuance of the peace note was preceded by unofficial conversations with prominent Germans in an endeavor to obtain Germany's consent to provisions for restoration of invaded territory.

FOOTBALL GUIDE PUBLISHED

Edited by Walter Camp as usual, Spalding's official football guide has made its annual appearance, its contents embracing all the familiar subjects and information that has made it so valuable to every player and follower of the gridiron sport. The revised rules are, of course, the feature of the book, while Mr. Camp's All America selections and his comments on the season, together with reviews of the game in various sections of the country by writers familiar with the play in their respective localities comprise the text, with President Wilson's letter to Lawrence Perry of the New York Evening Post upholding the continuance of athletic activities in the schools and colleges having the place of honor as frontispiece usually occupied by the leading team of the previous season. The statistical section has its usual broad range.

UTTERANCE OF L. P. BAIN AT PRAYER RECALLED

A singular event, considering the sudden death of L. P. Bain, occurred at the Columbus Street Baptist church Wednesday night at prayer meeting. This was less than twenty-four hours prior to the tragic death of Mr. Bain in the auto accident.

At the prayer meeting service several parties were asked to quote Bible verses which were comforting to them. L. P. Bain responded with the following from the 23rd Psalm:

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou are with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

New York Cotton.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 24.—There was a further decline in the cotton market at the opening today. The selling movement appeared to be stimulated by reports that spots were offered freely in the southwest, and there also appared to be scattered southern hedging. First prices were 11 to 20 points lower in consequence with the market selling off to 23c for October and 22.96 for January after the call. Covering was active around the 23-cent level, however, and rallies of a few points followed with later fluctuations extremely nervous and irregular.

The early demand was soon supplied and the market became very weak and unsteady. Southern selling continued, serving to color reports that farmers were marketing their cotton as rapidly as it could be gathered, and stop orders were uncovered on the break, which carried October and December off to 22.50 and January to 22.54 before midday, or about 63 to 72 points net lower. Another flurry of covering checked the decline at this level, with prices showing rallies of 10 to 12 points.

The close was steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

By the Associated Press.

New Orleans, Aug. 24.—A decline of 11 to 17 points was caused in the first half hour of trading in cotton today by reports of continued weakness in the spot markets of the interior. A few light showers in Texas also added to the desire to sell. There was little demand from any source.

Bearish sentiment ruled the market throughout the morning session. In the trading up to noon the most active months fell 47 to 52 points below the level of yesterday's close.

Selling was general and heavy in the afternoon and bear aggressiveness forced much liquidation of long contracts. At 1:30 the most active months were 85 to 93 points down net.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Light offerings of corn caused price figures to advance in the early trading. Another influence was low temperature in the northwest which has reminded traders that the crop has not yet been harvested. The immediate demands of shorts being satisfied, the market receded to about opening figures. Opening prices ranged from ⅛c lower to ⅝c higher, with December at $1.09@1.09¼ and May at $1.07@1.07¼. The initial rally carried December to $1.10 and May to $1.07¾.

Toward the close of the session strength of the cash market affected trades and prices rallied to well above the early figures. The close was strong, and near the top ⅜c to ½c net higher, with December at $1.10½ to $1.10⅝, and May at $1.07⅞1.08.

Wheat kept to its recent dull routine and with occasional transactions of an evening up character. The opening was 3c higher, September being $2.10. Later trades were at a decline of 2c. Evening up trades continued to rule the market in the afternoon. The close was strong, September selling 5c higher at $2.12 at the high point of the day.

Scattered buying of oats in sympathy with corn gave firmness to the market which opened unchanged to ⅜c higher. Fractional advances were followed by equally moderate recessions.

Provisions were moderately lower. Trading was light and scattering under the influence of the lower prices commanded by live hogs.

14 BANDS ARE COMING TO WACO WITH GUARDS

Do you like music?

Do your feet get just a tiny bit fussy when you hear a real good march?

Has there ever come an itching for action when some fine band blared out the strains of some fine martial air?

In case you have not or your feet did not then just wait a week or so and take a trip out to Camp MacArthur when the main body of guard troops arrive.

There will be plenty of bands—about fourteen of them, and they are all well trained in the art of military music.

When they start to play the troops on review cannot help keeping in step and the civilian on the side line can not help but stand a bit straighter and look a trifle more serious and feel a whole lot more patriotic.

Wait Wacoans till you hear the fourteen bands.

GOVERNMENT WANTS DIRECT DEALINGS WITH STOCKMEN

Arrangements have been made in McLennan county and other counties of Texas for the buying of mules and horses by the government direct from the owners of the stock.

But much of the business is handled through regular buyers locally, who take a chance of the government passing favorably on animals and buy them. Under the plan which has been suggested by the government, the county agricultural demonstration agents have been designated to get in touch with farmers, find out what they have, and then get the government agents in touch direct with these farmers.

2389 EMPLOYED BY F. A. JONES

STUPENDITY OF CONSTRUCTION PROJECT SHOWN BY NUMBER OF LABORERS.

There are now 2,839 men employed by the F. A. Jones Construction company in the construction work at Camp MacArthur.

There are 890 carpenters, 690 laborers, 240 electricians and helpers, 270 plumbers, pipe fitters and helpers, 14 roofers, 87 teams and trucks and 188 miscellaneous workers.

The force has not been cut down since the arrival of the advance guard of the national guardsmen but has been increased as demanded.

These men will now be used in the construction of the new warehouses and regimental store houses (just ordered) and in the building of the remount stations and the big base hospital.

The officers of the Jones company state that the majority of these workmen will be employed for many weeks yet on this work and the finishing work that must be done.

FALLS 18 FT. TO BALCONY, LAD WILL RECOVER

Lee Philips, 16, who lives at 1207 Webster, fell from a ladder while working on a building on the southwest corner of the square Thursday evening and is reported as being in a serious condition. The boy fell a distance of eighteen feet upon a balcony which stretched out below. This probably saved his life. Dr. J. H. Womack was called to the scene and administered a hypodermic, after which the injured boy was carried to the hospital.

TEMPLE MAN WILL OPEN CAFE ON FRANKLIN STREET

MATERNITY

Maternity and "Mother's Friend" have long been thought of together. "Mother's Friend" is a safe external preparation for expectant mothers. By its regular use the whole network of nerves just beneath the skin are soothed and stretching pains are avoided. The abdominal muscles relax easily when baby arrives and the form is preserved. "Mother's Friend" makes it possible for the mother to be herself and to aid nature. By so doing pain is avoided at the crisis. Do not neglect to give nature a helping hand. Ask for a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at your druggist's today and write for valuable book, "Motherhood and the Baby". It is free. Address The Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. JAPANESE COMMISSION INVITED TO VISIT WACO

An invitation Friday was extended the Japanese commission, now in this country, to visit Waco on their way to the Pacific coast, this invitation coming from the Chamber of Commerce and Mayor John Dollins. President J. M. Penland, who has been in Washington, extended the invitation while there, and it was backed up from Waco. If the invitation is accepted an elaborate entertainment will be given the distinguished visitors. Following is the telegram which was sent:

Waco, Tex., Aug. 24, 1917.
Hon. Robert N. Lansing, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

Sir: We would greatly appreciate the courtesy if you would extend to the Japanese commission for us our sincere invitation that its honorable body visit our city as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce and the city, on their way back to the Pacific coast.

We appreciate the importance of this commission's visit and we are anxious to express and convince its members and through them, the great government they represent, that Waco, the city in the very heart of Texas, desires to clasp hands in a welcome of sincere friendship to the end that the true principles of democracy may be felt by the fartherest nations of the earth and with the hope that peace and freedom may soon and forever abide throughout the world.

If this invitation shall be looked upon with favor by the commission would you be further kind enough to advise us their definite pleasure as to the probable time they may honor us, so that suitable arrangements may be made for their reception.

We express to you, Mr. Secretary, our highest feelings of esteem and respect, and thank you for the courtesy of this service.

Waco Chamber of Commerce, by E. W. Marshall, acting chairman military committee; John Dollins, mayor of Waco.

BIG SERVICE BANQUET HAS BEEN POSTPONED TO THURSDAY NIGHT

The service appreciation banquet planned for the men who made Camp MacArthur and the aviation school possible has been postponed until Thursday night of next week, as President J. M. Penland of the Chamber of Commerce and one or two others who have been very active could not be here Saturday night, August 25.

Announcement of the change was made Friday afternoon by Dr. I. L. McGlasson, general chairman, and notification was given persons seen by C. P. Link and W. T. Wheeler, who are doing active work in pushing the great affair.

The tickets sold already will be good for the banquet on Thursday night, and it will be held in the ball room of the Hotel Raleigh as planned previously.

General Chairman I. L. McGlasson said Friday afternoon: "The banquet will be even more elaborate than had been planned, as we will have more time. The unique features will be added to, and the affair will be attended by probably 400 persons. Tickets still are selling rapidly, and the outlook could hardly be better."

ANNOUNCE EARLY OPENING OF ONE OF FOUR BRIDGES

Following an inspection Friday by City Engineer Geo. B. Gurley, it was announced that the Barron's Branch bridge on the River Driveway will be opened early next week.

The McCall-Moore Engineering company, which built the bridge, accompanied City Engineer Gurley, through representatives. The finishing touches were being put on the structure and forms removed. The roadway only remains to have attention, and Street Commissioner J. F. Stampp will give attention to this at once. Commissioner Stampp is taking keen interest in the progress of the four bridges which are being built.

"This is one of the prettiest bridges in Texas," was City Engineer Gurley's comment while inspecting the Barron's Branch bridge Friday.

DRAINAGE WORK ON PLACE NEAR LORENA DREW CROWDS

Drainage work on the J. Ed Brown place near Lorena has attracted many farmers recently, the visitors taking a keen interest in the work done.

County Demonstration Agent J. A. Pipkin, Jr., who was in charge of the work, said Friday that interest displayed was encouraging, and he thinks that results will still further bring to minds of farmers the necessity for drainage and similar work in bettering and conserving their lands.

CHARGED WITH SLACKING.

After a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner A. P. McCormick, the bond of Emmett Simms, negro, was fixed at $300 to appear before the federal grand jury.

Simms was charged with slacking, and was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal J. A. Rogers. He lived in Robertson county.

KELSEY TO GALVESTON TO MEET SECRETARIES

COMFORT STATION PLANS PROGRESSING

Details looking to the construction in the business area of comfort stations for the convenience of the soldiers at Camp MacArthur went ahead Friday, and actual construction will begin next week.

Health Commissioner Bryant Allen, to whom this matter was referred with power to act, made a number of inspections yesterday of sites which may be available for such buildings. The sites will be secured as near the street as possible, though in some cases it may be necessary to put them towards the rear of lots or possibly on the alley in a limited number of cases. The most desirable sites to be had will be secured.

Buildings will be of stucco, and will be slightly and sanitary.
